MMIT State Profile

Utah

July 2023

Executive Summary

- Utah expanded its Medicaid program in 2019 on a limited basis to adults with incomes up to 100% of the federal poverty level (FPL), one year after voters approved such a plan. In 2020, the state expanded the Medicaid program to adults with incomes up to 138% of the FPL.
- More than 1.5 million people in Utah are enrolled in commercial plans, making it by far the largest channel. Nearly 380,000 residents are in managed Medicaid plans, while more than 352,000 have Medicare coverage.
- In Utah, 11% of residents have Medicaid coverage and 10.2% are enrolled in Medicare plans, well below the national averages of 18.9% and 15.4%, respectively.
- IHC Health Plans Corp. is by far the largest health insurer in Utah, with 930,495 medical lives. It leads the state with 502,811 commercial members, 229,547 health exchange beneficiaries and 161,517 managed Medicaid lives.
- UnitedHealth Group is the second-largest insurer in Utah, with 269,724 members, followed closely by Cambia Health Solutions with 264,631 beneficiaries.
- In 2022, Utah Gov. Spencer Cox (R) appointed Jennifer Strohecker, Pharm.D., as the state's Medicaid director. Strohecker was previously director of the state's Bureau of Healthcare Policy and Authorization and the Medicaid pharmacy director.

State Regulation of Health Benefits

- After voters approved Medicaid expansion in 2018, Utah implemented a limited expansion plan in 2019 and moved to a full expansion in January 2020. The expansion initially included a work requirement, but it was suspended in April 2020 during the COVID-19 pandemic and eliminated in August 2021. The expansion extended coverage to adults whose annual income is up to 138% of the federal poverty level.
- The state requires residents who are eligible for Medicaid to enroll in their employer-sponsored health plan if one is available. The state will then cover the member's premiums and any out-of-pocket expenses, including copays and deductibles.
- A Health Affairs study published in August 2022 found that Utah had the lowest health care spending per person ($7,250) in the U.S. in 2019.
